

Yi 2 7400
F 26

Weakness or the
on the Absence of Passions.

We have now finished the diseases, or morbid Actions of the passions. But we have not yet done with them.
There is sometimes a deficiency of force, or a total suspension of their Operations. Persons who are thus affected, ^{they are insensible to fear and grief.} hate, and love no one. They have no Attachments or Reventments, and are alike Strangers to Pleasure & pain. I know a Gentleman in this city, who is remarkable for his strong Attach & ardent Affection for his wife & Children when his mind is in a sound state, but when afflicted with the hissing sound, the this Affection is entirely, the but the more that he heard out of his Chair to come down from being startled before his eyes. When the mother a similar description of the looking in the window from a distance seem to him by the door. The effect of it are rapidly observed in the following him.

"The one a blazing heart full of parent boy.
"Or a loud Roar, pouring his life away.
"Or starting down, opposed by Difficulties there, full of wrath at his feet as examples come.

with the disorder I am ^{now} describing, loses this Affection so entirely, that he once told me ~~that~~ he would not move out of his Chair to save them from being butchered before his eyes. Homer describes a similar variation of the passions in Telemachus from a medicine given to him by Helen. The effects of it are happily described in the following lines.

- " Tho' on a blazing hearth pile his parent lay.
- " Or a loud Brother, groan'd his life away.
- " Or darling Son, oppress'd by Russian force,
- " fell breathless, at his feet, a mangled Corpse.

✓ I have read & heard of instances in which an extinction of parental love ^{took} place in sickness & just before death. Ind Rivet-see mem. Book. ^{Miss Sumner's case. see Conn. plan B 1806.} A physician of great eminence in London who died a few years ago declared on his death bed, ~~was~~ ^{never} that he never loved man, woman nor child in his life. — This character is not so rare a one in Society as is generally imagined.

— Such persons, by acting constantly, under the cold influence of their understandings, ^{some} men you are devoid of love, & incapable of attachments of all kinds — Others ^{we see} are devoid of fear — Others, of grief — and Others, of Anger — and now & then we see men devoid of them all. The last description of ^{persons} men, by acting constantly, under the cold influence of their understandings, generally pass this life with safety and reputation, ^{and acquire the character of wise & perfect} ~~But they are not men~~ men — but they are mutilated beings. — and of such persons it was once happily said "There must be something radically wrong in the man, who never ~~was~~ ^{could} err!"

"From morning, to ~~noon~~ evening in -
- passion, & serene,

"The man entranced, would view the ^{terrible} deathlike scene: - ... Odyssey Book IV. v. 315.

The remedies for this torpid state of the passions should be suited to the state of the system. Tonics, particu- larly the Cold Bath, & exercise sh^d. be prescribed. Perhaps pain would be useful. A salivation has once cured it. In the year 1798 I was consulted ^{at} W.
D. Shippen in the case of a lady in Virginia who had borne a child in a state of derangement. She discovered no affection ^{for this child} - refused to give it suck, & finally desired it to be her own. We

[Faint, mostly illegible handwritten text in cursive script, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page.]

[Partial view of handwritten text on the adjacent page to the right, including fragments like 'the', 'to', 'of', 'I', 'con', 'the', 'to'.]

prescribed a salivation for her. The Remedy succeeded, for no sooner did the mercury touch her mouth, than her natural affection ~~to~~ Dr Ba-son her child, ~~and informed us in a letter, dated~~ ~~instantly~~ ~~renewed~~ was instantly ex-cited, and continued ever afterwards.
This information was communicated to us in a letter dated April 20. 1798 from Dr Barand ^{then a} physician in Williamsburgh.

Here quit. I finish the history of the diseases of the mind. I feel as if I had been ^{sailing} ~~afloat~~ in a balloon ^{without a pilot} for ~~several~~ ^{some} days. Whether I have descended to the earth with ~~all my limbs~~ ^{my head, and limbs in a bound} ~~a clear~~ ~~space~~, or ~~not~~ ^{shattered} ~~shattered~~ ^{state}, ~~head, and sound limbs~~, I must leave upon it our present, and future inquiries, be crowned with success, they will extend the empire of our Science to ~~an~~ ^{the} ~~extent equal that will render it a~~ diminution or destruction of the greatest evils that have ever afflicted the human race, for we shall have not only ^{to cure} the Diseases of the mind, but we shall ^{be} greatly assisted in curing the diseases of the body.

- There is no disease which threatens life in which the mind is passive. By cultivation
- ting a knowledge of the ^{its} ~~principles~~ ^{faculties} of action to your determination. Should you find ^{them in the latter situation} ~~the former impaired~~, & the latter ~~broken~~, ascribe it to my having ven-tured into a region where no pilot nor compass ~~ever~~ could be found to direct, or regulate my course. The ~~subject is in part new~~ The subject is a new one, ^{a difficult one, but highly} ~~most of the observations~~ ^{facts} important to a physician. ~~I have delivered to you all the results of~~ ~~my own observations. When they are~~ ^{I have promised} when they are rendered more extensive, and ^{less imperfect} ~~more correct~~, they shall, agreeably to a former promise, be communi-cated to the public from the press.

I have only to add, that no part of ~~my~~ ^{the} theory of the diseases of the mind which I have delivered, ^{or of their remedies,} makes it ne-cessary to ~~renew~~ ^{renew} the ancient doctrine

^{the mind} ~~of the~~ ^{of the} ~~mind~~ ^{operations} of me may Derive ~~from~~ ^{of the} powerful Direct them in such a manner as to Derive great aid from them in the Use of all our medicines.

✓ death into the world of Spirits, and a state of happiness or misery.
The interval of time to the perception of the home mind will be exactly the same, whether this be the case, or whether we awake after a sleep of a thousand, or six thou-sand years. That time, in our consciousness of it, will be — — but a single moment.

Before I take leave of the Subject of the ~~two~~ Diseases of the mind, permit me to recommend the study of its faculties, of the immateriality of the mind. I have contended only for the dependance of the mind for all its operations upon impressions made upon the body & senses, or in other words upon emotion in ^{the} brain.

This Opinion does not contradict the idea of the mind possessing independent powers of thought & action when separated from the body. Whether this be the case, or not, is not for me to decide, nor ~~have I ever felt~~ ^{do I feel} any inquietude upon this subject. The principles of Christianity are no ways affected by either of ~~those~~ ^{these} ~~the two~~ opinions. ~~held by men.~~ The comfortable doctrine of the resurrection, and a future state, ~~are~~ ^{is} alike true, whether we go to sleep in the grave, or enter immediately ~~into~~ ^{after} opinions & diseases to your investigation.

The mind of ^{man} ~~beings~~ is ~~the most exalted work~~ a master piece of ~~of the supreme Being~~ ~~of~~ ~~us~~ divine power and wisdom. Its destiny is - eternal - ~~the~~

It shall survive the ruins of Crowns, Thrones, and Globes and Worlds - We may therefore with reverence say ^{of them} ~~to it~~ what an inspired writer says to the dirty - after coarctation - -plating the heavens & the earth: "They shall perish - but thou shalt endure - ~~yea~~ they shall wax old like a garment - As a Vesture shalt thou change them, & they shall be changed - but ^{thou} ~~they~~ years ~~shall~~ art the same, & thy years shall have no end."]